Class of 1972

CLASS HISTORY

Upon our initial arrival at E.W.H.S. we were herded through the corral gates for orientation. Marshall Lunkie strode onto the stage sporting a pair of double barrel Bic pens. Uncle Milt patrolled the streets with ten gallon feet. Our four year jail sentence began.

We elected our officials at our first and only class meeting. Carol Nadeau was our sheriff, Norm Cloutier as her deputy, Debbie Kostuk as our banker, and Sue Hastillo as our clerk.

On Freshmen Day, all dressed up in buttons and bows, and lookin' real spiffy, we young calves were led to the chuck wagon. There the seniors fitted us with ten gallon hats.

"Poverty Lane" was a rootin-tootin success seein' as we only paid out six green-backs for the fiddlers.

We galloped into a rip-roaring pep rally with the invention of the spray can but we were shot down by a spirit explosion . . . Damm it. Boy did we get lassoed into that!

As we galloped into our Sophomore year, our newly appointed sheriff was Neal Carter, his deputy was Pete Starvish. Mary Jo Carter was banker and Naomi Osborn was our clerk.

Our second hoedown, "Becuz" was a real toe pincher. Following the last years hanging, the art Auction was a booming success. We swooped out of the western skys to rob the stage of its backdrop. Then it was on to the pep rally, where the senior Indians scalped us.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, the Peace Press shot at commanding officers.

Three fellow cow pokes were inducted into the Western Ranch Society. Rosita Mas, Neal Carter, and Patty Stanat were the only members of our ranch to make it into the organization which has come to be known as the National Honor Society.

As concerned cowmen, we decided to attack Farmer Dexter for poisoning our water holes. We chased them off the homestead seein' as they wouldn't stand and fight.

Cantering into our Junior year, our new marshal was Morocco Mole and his assistant, the Frito Bandito. We then elected our leaders: Neal Carter was once again our Ten gallon sheriff and Rosita Mas was deputy Halfpint. Denise Surrells was our banker and Naomi Osborn was once again our clerk.

First to break tradition we were privately branded as the class of 1972 with our class rings.

Our hootenanny, "Beginnings" featured Rush.

Our last Art Auction ended with a "whip-off" of our trail boss's shirt.

We dosey-dood under our foreman Coleen Lavell and Mike Scully. Duly elected as our queen was Regina Krist escorted by Norman Cloutier, followed by Elaine Bancroft escorted by Glen Vincent, Pat Borys with Mike Baker, Naomi Osborn with Sam McGill and Denise Surrells with John Balch.

Mike Sandone's Persian good-bye in Oklahoma and Class Day were our last productions.

We mosied on into our already familiar territory in our Senior year.

Despite the fact that we were buffaloed into our yearbook by Morocco, our editor in chief was Denise Surrells.

With Mike Sandone as sheriff, his deputy Pat Stanat, Denise Craig banker, and Naomi Osborn as clerk our final leaders were chosen.

We became trustee's in the beginning of our Senior year. We were allowed to leave the ranch as soon as our chores were finished.

As we leave our corral gate and go our separate ways in our covered wagons we know that some of us will make our homesteads and become, Richman, Poorman, beggerman, thieves, Doctors, lawyers and Indian Chiefs.

1971-72 Cheerleaders

The 1971 Cross-Country Team completed the most successful season in the sports history of East Windsor High School. The Panthers won the North Central Connecticut Conference Title for the second straight year and took the second-place trophy in sports history. In addition, East Windsor has posted a 35-4 Dual Meet Record over the last two seasons.

Leading the team were its two Co-Captains, Rick Stathers and Chris Pierce, the two best runners in the NCCC. Bob DeBella and Jesse Hughes also starred for the team, as all four boys were voted Conference All-Stars by the coaches. Paul Loubier, George Parker, and Rick Whinnem scored consistently, while adding depth to the team were Steve Cianci, Rick Hensel, Don and Len Martinsen, and Mark Yuodsukis.
